About Wellington Local History & Museum Society

The Society aims to promote knowledge about Wellington and its history. Our activities include running Wellington Museum, publishing books and leaflets on local topics and organising talks and walks.

The Society and the Museum are run entirely by volunteers. If you would like to help in running the Society's activities by, for instance, becoming a steward or helping the curator please contact an officer of the Society - details below.

We offer for sale postcards and souvenirs as well as a range of books and leaflets on local topics, many being exclusive to the Museum. Our reference section has a wide range of books and photographs about the town and villages around.
